Logo Description

06

The Crown — Royal Identity and Leadership

At the top of the symbol is a five-point crown, representing:

- Kingdom identity
- Royal authority
- Leadership responsibility
- Spiritual inheritance

The crown visually reinforces the name The Kings Tribe and communicates the idea that members are called to live with purpose, discipline, and influence.

The Cross — Christ at the Center

At the heart of the logo is a cross created through negative space.

This element establishes the most important message of the brand:

Christ is the center of identity, formation, and leadership.

The cross communicates that:

- spiritual growth is the foundation of leadership
- purpose flows from faith
- influence must remain anchored in Christ

The Pillars — Strength, Structure, and Formation

The vertical shapes forming the structure of the logo represent pillars.

Pillars symbolize:

- strength
- stability
- wisdom
- institution

In the context of The Kings Tribe, the pillars represent leaders who become pillars of influence in society.

They also symbolize the structured journey of formation that the movement offers—guiding individuals through spiritual development and leadership growth.

Biblically and historically, pillars represent people who uphold truth and stability in their communities. This aligns with the brand's mission to raise leaders who stand firm in their faith while shaping culture.
